Bios

Katie Cave: Katie is just beside herself to be returning for her fourth season with the Comedy Pigs. How in the world did she get so lucky to perform with all these talented improvisers? Let's just keep it on the downlow, not make any sudden movements, and maybe they'll let her stay. If she makes ya giggle tonight, be sure to tell her. It makes her whole week! Enjoy and laugh heartily.

Sonny Etzler: Sonny started with the Comedy Pigs in 2014. His improv career began when his lovely wife gave him an improv class for his birthday. Since then, he has been head over heels for the craft. When not onstage, he can be found working on his endlessly in need of repair 130 year old home in Libertytown where he resides with his amazing wife, Candace, and their 2 Boston Terriers, Uncle Rico and Tina.

Cal Holderbaum: Cal is super excited and honored to be performing with The Comedy Pigs again! A BIG shoutout to his fellow Pig performers whom he adores. Cal loves being a dad to his 2 amazing kids that remind him how to improvise everyday. Also, Cal makes music and art (ask him about it) and (fun fact) works as an AudioVisual technician at the Smithsonian Institution!

Rob Hughes: Rob Hughes is an enthusiastic member of The Comedy Pigs! Having learned Improv at The MET in Frederick Maryland he then joined OhCrit, the D&D improv group, for several seasons. Hailing from an acting background, starting in college to the Frederick theater community, Rob found improv comedy to be a natural progression. Now he spends the first Friday and Saturday of the month performing with the super funny Comedy Pigs.

Richard Johnson: Richard has been doing improv for 3 years. Starting with taking classes at the MET and moving to WIT. Transferring his love of movement from sports to the stage.

Jiggy McGarvey: You can take him out of the Pigs but you can't take the Pigs out of him. After a short hiatus of just 13 years from the Comedy Pigs, Jiggy is making his comeback. Improving since out of the womb, he hopes to thrill you with both verbal and physical affirmations as he subjects himself to anything you suggest... or find funny. Please and thank you.

Molly Parchment: After performing virtually and then taking a brief hiatus after having her second baby (during a global pandemic no less), Molly is thrilled to be back performing live with the Comedy Pigs for her 6th season! Molly is a Company Member at the MET and is also the Comedy Manager for Comedy Night. She feels so lucky to get to perform with some of the greatest improvisers around!

Jessica Rota: Jessie is so excited to be a member of the Comedy Pigs. She has taken improv classes taught by Laura Stark and Tom Scholtes. When she's not making a fool of herself onstage she is at work at the Rock Creek School where she works as an SEIA.

Jess Taylor: Jessica discovered improv in college, because she couldn't sing well enough to be in an Acapella group. Improv then took over her life. In Florida, she performed and taught with the group Not Quite Right. Upon emigrating from the sandbar wasteland, she helped found Key City Improv and joined Comedy Pigs. She is grateful for the open arms of the Frederick improv community. It's the best cult in town.

Matt Vance: Matt is beginning his 7th season as a Comedy Pig. In addition to improv comedy Matt has also been a company member with MET, working as a set designer on several Fun Company and Mainstage shows. He has also recently started doing stand-up comedy here in downtown Frederick.

Gabe Weigle: Gabe is excited to begin his first season with Comedy Pigs! He has performed improv for over 18 years with the Baltimore Improv Group, People's Improv Theater NYC, and the Maryland Improv Collective. Gabe has studied his craft at the Groundlings Comedy School and the People's Improv Theater during his comedy career. In his spare time he enjoys spending time with his wife, two kids, playing hockey, and aging the best way he can.

John Windeueller: John loves improv. Being present in the moment, playing and making art... what's not to love? John has two decades of experience performing, teaching and directing improv. A former college professor with a PhD in Conflict Analysis & Resolution, he currently serves as the Director of WIT@Work, the corporate training and applied improv branch of Washington Improv Theater, where he gets to teach improv to everyone from NPR to the NSA.

Julia Williams: This is Julia's 8th season with the Comedy Pigs after joining them back in 2012! Julia has performed with the Pigs, Shakespeare in the Pub, and at the Maryland Renaissance Festival for many years with training at Artistic New Directions (NYC), Second City Conservatory (Chicago), and ComedySportz (Chicago) shoved in here and there. Julia is pursuing her MLIS at the University of Maryland Her favorite activities are reading, talking about Tudor history, and drinking wine while doing both of those things.
